Clinical Associate at Quoro Medical

We are looking for a Clinical Associate to join our team on a contractual month to month basis.

Quoro Medical (QM) is a digital health company that leverages innovative technologies and analytics to deliver premium hospital-at-home services in South Africa.

At Quoro Medical we are re-imagining the future of healthcare, saving lives, and enhancing patient care. If you are looking for an opportunity to do essential work, on a unique problem, alongside great people, we invite you to join us.

Responsibilities

- Ensure provision of quality clinical services aligned with the goals and practice standards of Quoro Medical.
- Perform patient-centred consultations within the scope of Quoro Medical services while maintaining quality metrics.
- Apply cost-effectiveness in the delivery of healthcare services.
- Responsible for continuous clinical quality improvement in consultation with the Chief Medical Officer (CMO).
- Contribute to the development of clinical guidelines and protocols.
- Supports monitoring and recording of service delivery data.
- Promote and facilitate information sharing of persistent quality barriers and best practices to accelerate program improvement.
- Regularly prepare report activities, outcomes, and challenges to CMO.
- Collaborate with the patient in all aspects of the consultation to include but not limited to initial and follow-up patient assessment. Facilitate patient feedback.
- Effectively collaborate with team members that include but are not limited to physicians and allied health professionals.
- Collaborate with health organisations within the health system that include but are not limited to healthcare provider groups, medical schemes, NGOs, suppliers, and international health organisations.
